MAPLE LEAVES

PUBLISHED BY THE STUDENTS
OF
Dublin High School
DUBLIN, VIRGINIA.

Foreword

The Staff takes pleasure in presenting to you the fifth edition of MAPLE LEAVES which contains a record, though not complete, of our activities, a description of our teachers and classmates, and a wealth of reminders of one more happy year at Dublin High School.

MISS FLORENCE REPASS

Dedication

We recognized that our achievement of graduation has not been attained without the help of many others who have looked far ahead of our classes in arithmetic and geography to the time when facts would be of far less importance than knowing how to live, and have helped influence our thinking and behavior accordingly.

To Miss Florence Repass who has given herself conscientiously and devotedly to this task, who has helped give us that all-important foundation for high school, and whom we shall always regard with highest esteem, we, the Staff, affectionately dedicate MAPLE LEAVES 1947.

Class History

Gee! What a time it was when ninety-six freshmen entered the auditorium on September 1, 1943. All of us were anxious to get started because we thought it was an honor to be in high school.

Miss Allison, Miss Mary Vernon Morgan, and Mrs. Grigsby were kind enough to accept the responsibility of teaching us. We had a swell time that year. Most of us passed our exams in May, and were excited at the thoughts of going up!

Beginning the sophomore year there were sixty-four of us. We were placed under Mrs. Wilkinson and Miss Alexander. Mrs. Gladys Duncan took Mrs. Wilkinson's place after Christmas. All of us liked her very much and enjoyed having her as our teacher. We spent most of our time looking forward to the junior year when we could be with Mrs. Copenhaver and get our rings. Finally the year rolled around and we became juniors.

There were forty-nine juniors. We presented the junior play, "Robinson Crusoe" with much pleasure and we felt that it was a success and everyone seemed to enjoy it. We entertained the seniors with a dance and a party in May. Finally the year rolled around and we knew the next step was that of being seniors.

During the summer Charlie Hand and Rodney Lance left for the Navy so we are minus two of our group.

Here we are seniors! And it surely feels good to be a senior. It is the day we have dreamed of for the past three years. We have back with us this year Billy Hylton who is taking a postgraduate course and James Simpson who is a veteran of three years Army service in the European theater of war. We all regret the fact that Reba Woodrum was forced to withdraw from school for a while because of illness but we are delighted that she is able to return for the last few months of school.

Our senior play, "Huckleberry Finn" is being presented here April 18, and at Belspring April 23. The cast is as follows:

Huckleberry Finn .....	JAMES COOKE
Jim .....	JAMES MORRIS
Aunt Sally .....	GILDA BEAMER
Emmeline Gangerford .....	BILLY JOYCE HEDGE
Silas Phelps .....	BILL LINKOUS
Tom Sawyer .....	GEORGE BAILEY
Joanna Wilck .....	JUNE BESS
Mary Jane Wilck .....	EVELYN McCRAW
The King .....	SHERMAN HURST
The Duke .....	RICHARD GUTHRIE
Becky Thatcher .....	DOROTHY PRICE
Aunt Polly Sawyer .....	MARY FRANCES MARTIN

We are all looking forward with much pleasure to our dance at the Governor Tyler, May 16 when Tom Dobyns and his band will play for us.

We shall graduate June 6. From there on we shall go our separate ways, and we hope our paths will cross often again with you, our classmates. We are glad we know you and hope you feel the same about us. Anyway its all yours, now. Juniors. Keep 'em flying!

Class Will

The Senior Class of 1947 leave to our beloved principal, Mr. Jordan, our sincere thanks for his goodness and fatherly advice. To our wonderful sponsor, Miss Francis, our gratitude for her help and patience and all the little things on which she gave us advice. To the other faculty members, our thanks for their help together with the wish that we have not caused them too many worries. To our friends, the Junior Class, our dignity, the use of our warm room, all our books, paper, and pencils which you will need and find invaluable in acquiring knowledge; also our thanks to you, all our classmates, for your friendship and the good times we have enjoyed together.

Then after due consideration of our many talents and accomplishments we do hereby will and bequeath our most prized possessions:

June Bess her ability to enter the Beta Club to Betty Jane Lester.

Patsy Beasley her love for Hudson cars to Mary Price.

James Cooke his taste for beautiful women to Pete Hunt.

Agnes Dulaney her position as nursemaid on the Mountain bus to Bill Deck knowing how he loves to care for small children.

Richard Guthrie his position in the F. F. A. to Delton Lineberry.

Edna Haga her quietness to Joan Kinzer.

Robin Hunt his heavy beard to Bill Brodie.

Sherman Hurst his downfall, George Bailey's hard cider to Vernon Lance.

Billye Joyce Hedge her love for Mondays the day of the week and M-u-n-d-a-y-s as well, to Nancy Palmer.

Alma Horton her love for a Pulaski radio announcer to Irene King.

Jane Jackson her position as a cheerleader to Louise Trinkle.

Lee Link her position as Valentine Queen to Mildred Miller.

Bill Jennings his slick line with the girls to Chan Wysor.

Ruby Lineberry her dark hair to Alice Goard and her figure to Lee Hunt.

Milton Nester his ability to woo and win a charming girl to all the bachelors in the Junior room.

Evelyn McCraw her ability to get away with mischief in the back of the room to Helen Smith.

Dick Meador his post-office parking space to Pete Hunt. He was interested in the same place once.

Betty Riddle her love for dancing to Betty Jo Keister.

James Simpson his mustache to Earl Covey.

Ellis Roseberry his height to Jack Farmer.

Buddy Smith his ability to swipe Miss Francis' thumbtacks to Jimmy Brillheart.

Gertrude Turpin her seat in the back of the room where she gets away with giggling to Barbara Waddell.

Mickey Turpin her sunny disposition to some of the teachers as they can use it.

Dot Price her ability not to go steady to Imogene Dalton.

Alfred Carden his ability to be a second Archie Whitt in football to Charlie Sumner.

Ruth Keeling her dignity to Sue Brillheart.

Charles Hudson his ability of being on time for classes to George Oakly.

Edwin Crabtree his ability to wreck cars to Donald Haga.

Elizabeth Stillwell her even tempered ways to all the under classmen who fly off the handle too quickly.

Outstanding Seniors

The senior class voted these students as the four outstanding members of their class. In addition to the qualities for which they were particularly chosen we have found all of them to be good sports, friendly, dependable, and we feel they fully typify what we want Dublin students to be.

Close seconds for these honors were Robin Hunt, athlete; Vivian Link, attractive girl; Ruby Lineberry, likely to succeed; Sherman Hurst, attractive boy.

The New Kid

The jeep stopped and a soldier got out. He came toward me carrying his rifle and bedroll.

"Is this B Company?" he asked.

"Sure thing; give me your bedroll and come with me. I'll take you over to Command Post," I said, wondering why we couldn't get more than one man because we need a hundred.

As we walked toward the C. P. I looked at the new rifle and the clean clothes. Just a kid, I thought as I noticed the soft skin that had never been touched by a razor.

"Well, what do you think of our peaceful town?" I asked as shells screamed overhead and landed with an exploding thud nearby in the ruins of a once beautiful town.

"Down!" I yelled, and made a dive for a ditch, as a shell came in for a quick landing.

"Goodness! What is peaceful about this place?" asked the kid as we crawled out of the ditch. "Do they always come in like that?"

"That was nothing. Just wait until supper time, then you will think this is just a dry run," I said, wishing very much to be in my cellar where there wasn't any danger of being hit.

"Here is our platoon C. P. Let's go inside and find out what squad you are going to be in."

We stepped through a hole in the brick wall of a house and went down the steps into the cellar.

The platoon sergeant was looking at a map when we entered.

"Sarge, here is a new man," I announced.

The kid stepped forward and gave the name of Jones and a lot of other information.

He said he had been in the Army about three months and was rushed overseas along with three thousand other replacements on the General A.

He complained about having to sleep on the cold floor without any heat, while riding a boxcar through France.

We told him that he was very lucky to have ridden in a boxcar, as a lot of us had to walk most of the way and sleep in a cold wet hole in the ground.

Not knowing when we went to sleep, whether we would be alive the next morning.

"This war shouldn't last so very much longer," said the kid. "The Germans quit when we got to Germany in the last war and we are in Germany now."

"Don't worry, kid," I said. "You'll get more than your fill of this bloody mess before it is over. We are fighting a bunch of ruthless killers and fanatics, who don't know the first letter in the word, quit."

Yes, I thought, it had been rough, but the worst was yet to come. We were now on German soil and there would be a bitter struggle before we get through the thousands of pill boxes and miles of mine fields and barbed wire loaded with booby traps that had been erected by the Germans to prevent our entry into their homeland.

"Well, Sarge," I said, "I have got to be going. It is getting near chow time and I am hungry."

"OK, Bill. Take Jones with you and get the password from Hawk when he comes in from the C. O."

"Sure thing, Sarge," I said.

"Let's go, kid, before it gets dark. We might fall in a hole and forget to wake up if we stayed out too late."

I picked up his bedroll and went outside, where we could hear the roaring guns and see the pale flash when the shells exploded.

Most of the shells were hitting the other side of town and we made our way to my squad cellar unmolested.

I told him to spread his bedroll in the corner because we would need to get some sleep before we went on guard at twelve o'clock that night.

The shells were getting closer to our cellar. So close, that we could hear the dirt and stones hit the walls of the house when the shells exploded.

The kid never said a word. He just sat there on his bed and jumped a little when a shell hit close by.

I went to the stove and got him a cup of hot coffee, saying, "Here kid, drink this and relax. Those shells can't hit us and it will be quiet when we go on guard."

"I know," said he. "But the things get on my nerves."

"That is the same way they did me," I said. "But you will soon get used to them."

I lay down and went to sleep. The kid waked me at eleven thirty and said, "I don't see how in the world you can sleep with all the noise there is around here."

"You will," I said, as we got ready to go on guard.

As we walked toward the outpost, all was quiet except for an occasional shell passing overhead.

Out at the outpost, we relieved my buddies and settled down for six hours of watchfulness.

He asked me where the Germans were and I pointed toward the machine gun flashes about three hundred yards away saying, "There are the Supermen, who thought they would rule the world."

We talked about home and what we thought would happen when the war was over.

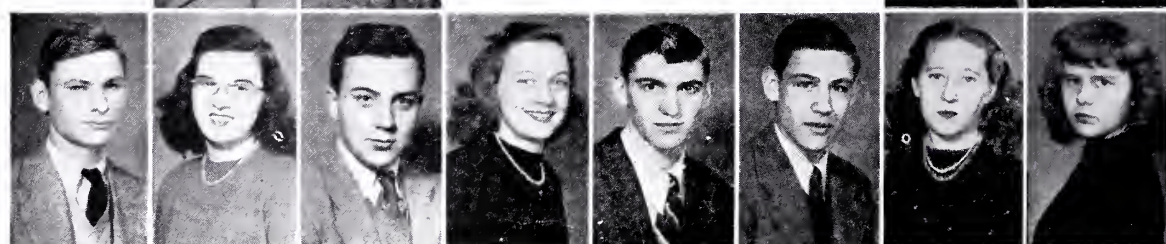

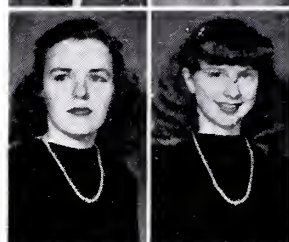

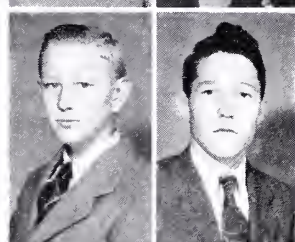

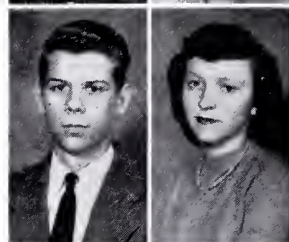

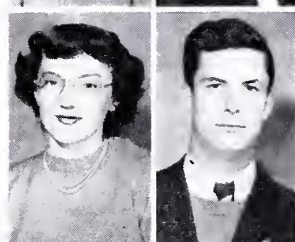

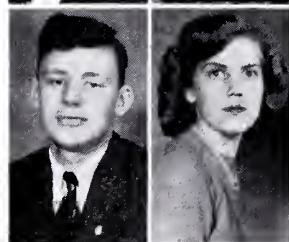

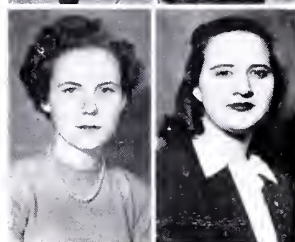

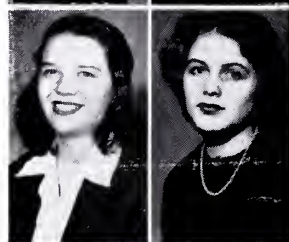

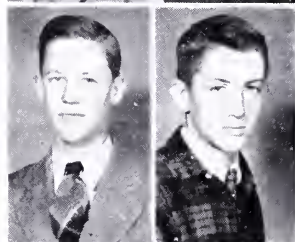

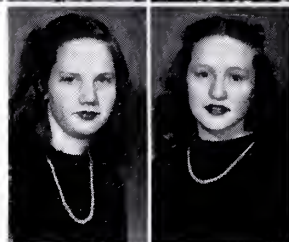

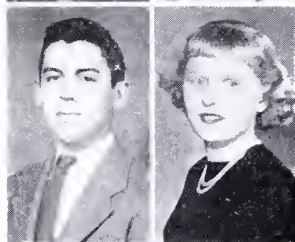

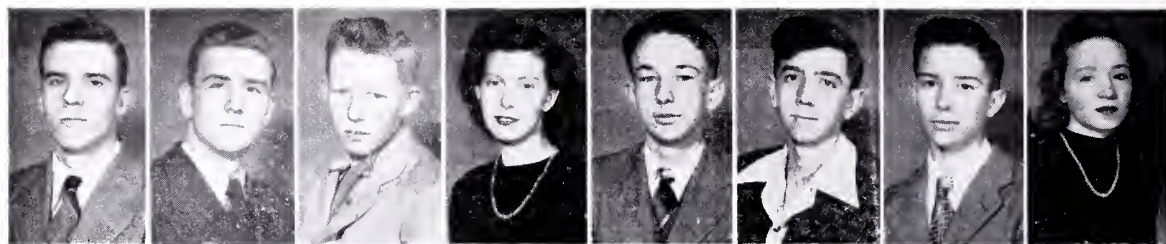

The firing increased about five o'clock and by the time our buddies arrived at six o'clock, the shells were coming in thick and fast.

Hurriedly we made our way to the squad cellar. After drinking some coffee and smoking a few cigarettes, we lay down to sleep. The kid didn't mind the guns and exploding shells so much now. He was tired and very sleepy after several sleepless hours in our once peaceful town. Suddenly he was asleep. The shells, which made the house quiver and shake when they hit the upper part, did not wake him. Nothing bothered him now. He was one of us; a soldier fighting for his country and democracy.

The Queen of Hearts Ball

A lovely queen and a handsome king, a day set apart for lovers, an evening set apart for pleasure. This is what made the Queen of Hearts Ball on February 14 a gala event.

The dance was sponsored by the Monogram Club and the king and queen were chosen by popular student vote. They couldn't have done better than to elect charming and petite Lee Link, queen, and our handsome football tackle, Buddy Smith, king. Decorations were of the Valentine theme and a lively crowd danced to recorded music in honor of the King and Queen of Hearts.

ABSENT WHEN PICTURE WAS MADE: Morgan Coleman, Vivian Link, Sherman Hurst.

The Football Banquet was one of the most delightful events of our entire year. A delicious meal was prepared and served by the ladies of the community, Miss Shelor and the Home Economic girls. After the banquet the group went to the school building where we enjoyed dancing throughout the evening.

The Home Economics-F. F. A. Barn Dance

The Dublin F. F. A. boys and Home Economics girls and their guests enjoyed an old-fashioned barn dance in the hay loft of George Bailey's barn.

The girls and boys assisted by their instructors, Miss Eula Shelor and Mr. G. G. Wygal, cleaned and decorated the barn with Halloween decorations.

The music was furnished by the Rhythm Ramblers.

Dancing was enjoyed until midnight after which cider, sandwiches and cookies were served.

Approximately 150 boys and girls attended with several parents attending as chaperons.

DONALD BARTON, Coach

As the 1946 football season opened, the Dublin Dukes found themselves with a new coach and facing an eleven game schedule. But with nine returning lettermen the outlook for a successful season was fairly good.

The Dukes opened the season on September 13th with its traditional foe, Pulaski, and after completely outplaying the opponent in the first half, finally succumbed by a score of 13-0.

On the following week the Dukes won their first victory by defeating Nazareth High of Roanoke by a score of 19-0.

The third game was played on Miles Stadium with Blacksburg and after a hard-fought game Dublin emerged the winners by a score of 7-0.

The next game was on October 4th at Radford which proved to be too much. Radford won by a score of 25-0.

On October 11th, the Dukes played their night game at Narrows with no one the winner. The final score was 0-0.

On October 18th, the Dukes returned home and played their best game of the season turning back Christiansburg, 18-6.

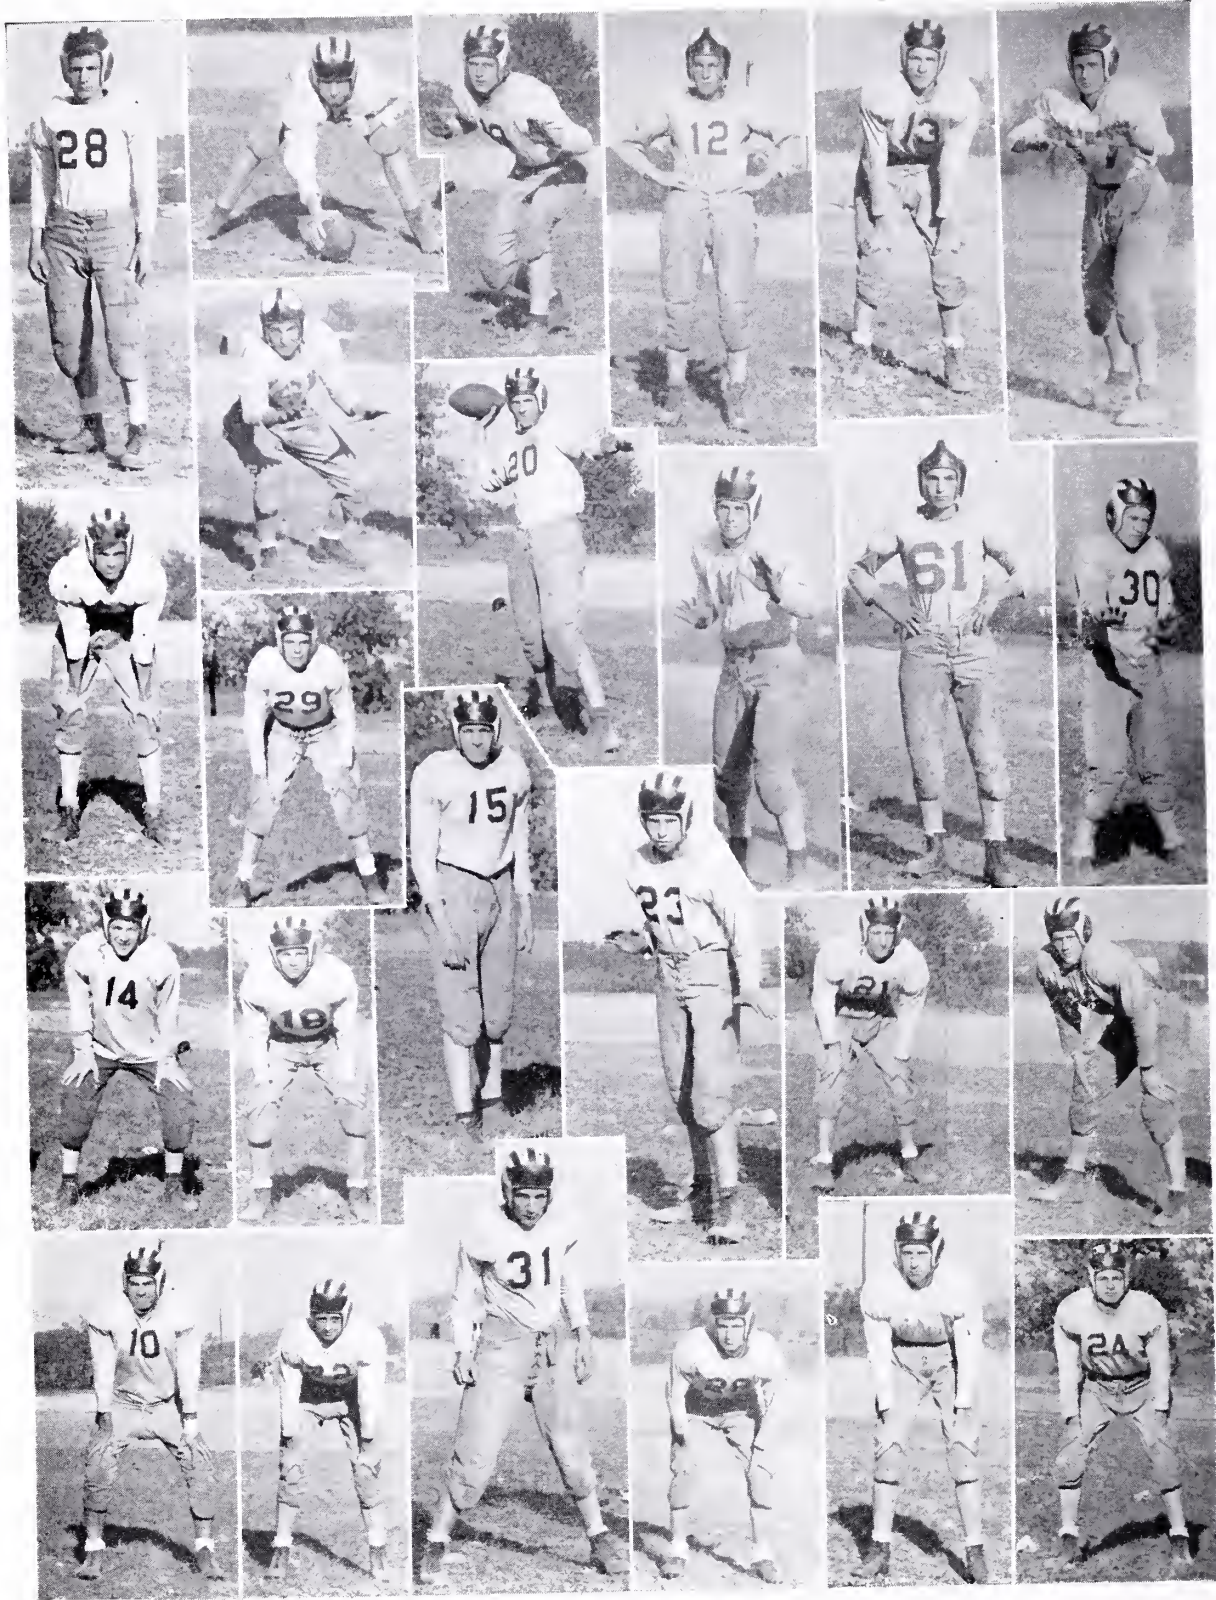

The following week the Pearisburg "Red Devils" came to Dublin. Two long passes in the final quarters turned the tide of the game in favor of the opponents. Final score was Pearisburg 12, Dublin 0.

The next game was played in Abingdon against Meadowview in which Meadowview won 13-0.

The Dukes next foe was Glade Spring. This game was the high light of an Armistice Day celebration. Final score was 12-6 in our favor.

On November 15th a highly-favored Galax team furnished the opposition on the Galax field, and as predicted Galax was the winner. The score was 13-0.

Rural Retreat came to Dublin the following week to help bring down the curtain on the 1946 season. The Dukes were right in this game and ran up a 30-0 score.

Girls' Basketball

The Dublin Duchesses had a belated beginning and an early conclusion of the basketball season. In spite of these handicaps and the difficulties under which they labored the Duchesses come forth with four qualities which are desirable in any team—vigor, interest, diligence, and determination.

On November 15, after only two weeks of practice the Duchesses waged their first battle of the season with Draper, who at that time had lost only one game out of five. For most of the girls this was their first time ever to play in a gym. The girls tried hard to win, but were defeated by a 22 to 9 score.

The Duchesses were hostess to Draper on December 16. At the half Dublin led by a few points, but in the last half Draper made a brilliant stand and took the game by a mere 3 points.

On December 18 the Duchesses met the Radford Junior Varsity Team. Without too much effort but with a great deal of quick thinking the Duchesses doubled the score 20 to 10.

Throughout each of the three games the girls showed ideal cooperation, and had the necessary facilities presented themselves the Duchesses would have developed into a team that would bring pride to any high school.

1947 Baseball

Dublin High School Baseball aspirants began practice on March 20 under Don Barton, the new coach. The following lettermen reported for practice: Captain Richard Guthrie, Alfred Carden, George Bailey, Bill Jennings, Dan Tolbert, Sherman Hurst, and Jimmie Brillheart. With several new boys reporting along with the veterans, prospects for a winning club looked fairly good.

Did You See . . .

Miss Francis' face the day the new Monogram members were initiated?

Betty Hand kiss Buddy Smith on No. 3 bus?

Miss Shelor hit the walk when the snow was so deep?

That bunch of girls in Myers Drug Store the day so much smoke was flying? Ask Betty Jane Lester about it.

Miss Francis slap Frederick Beamer's face in Government class?

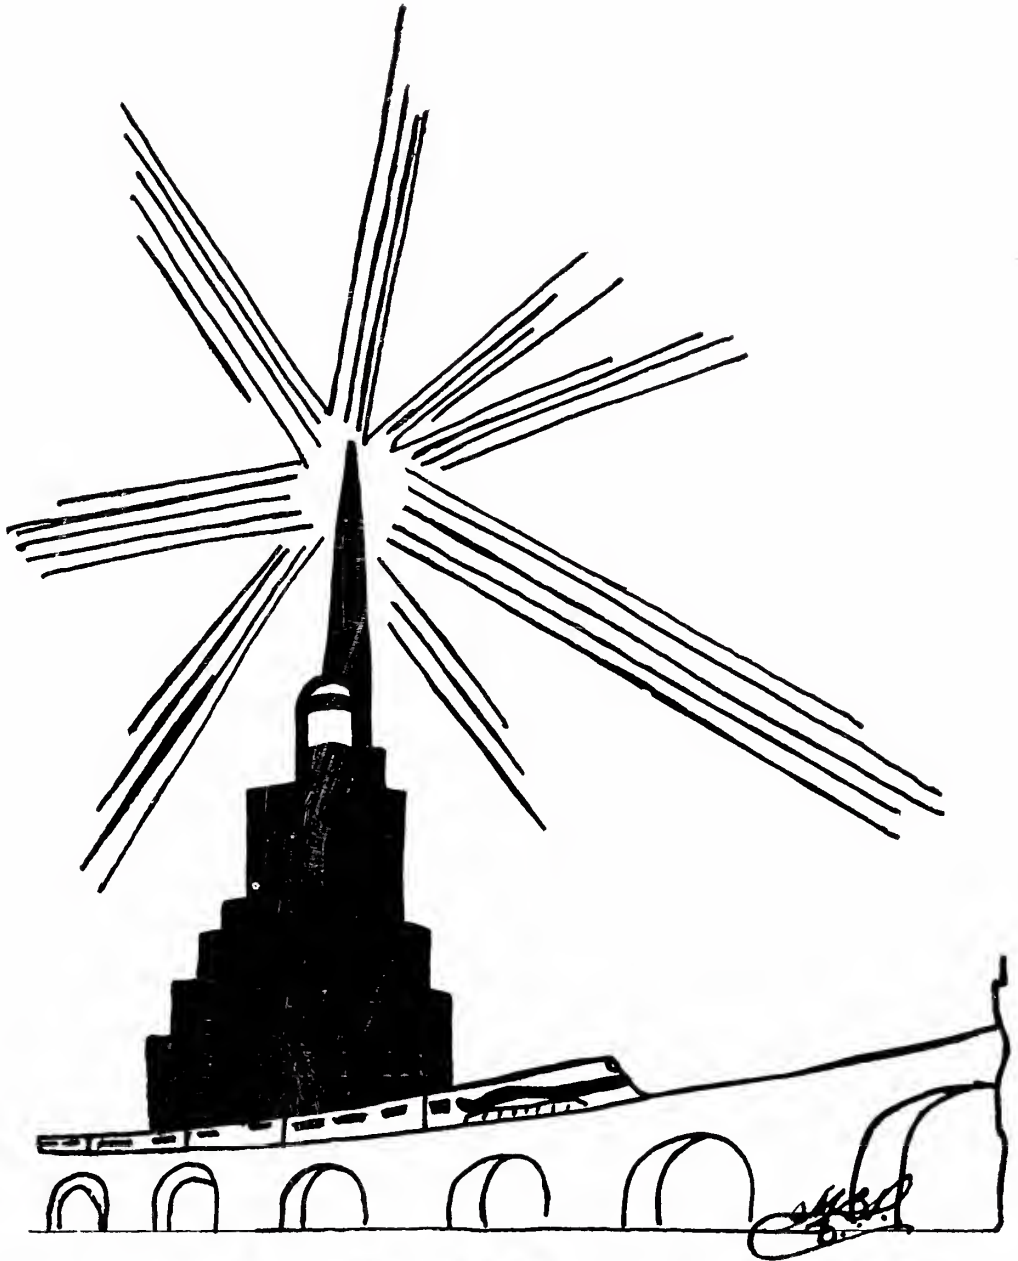

Sherman Hurst and George Bailey the morning their trousers were torn?

Lee Link, Evelyn McCraw, Gertrude Turpin, Agnes Dulaney, and Willodene Quesenberry the day they were making those silly pictures with a couple of juniors?

That gang in that coupe from Belspring the night of the barn dance?

The embarrassing looks on those kids faces that week that everyone seemed to be snagging the seat out of their pants, ripping the pleats out the back of their skirts and tearing pockets off?

"Till the End of Time" with the two Senior couples at Pulaski Theater?
